Problems of Marriage To Be Speaker's Topic At Woman's Meeting

Dr. Alice Pickett, Louisville Physician, to Address Compulsory Assembly

4 P. M. THURSDAY SET AS CONVOCATION TIME

A. W. S. Council, Sponsor of Gathering, to Fete Speaker Following Talk

Dr. Alice Pickett, well-known physician of Louisville, will speak on "Marriage and Its Problems" at a convocation for women students 4 p. m. Thursday, in Memorial hall.

Any student desiring to have specific questions answered by Dr. Pickett during her lecture are requested to submit their questions to the University post office, box 3149.

The lecture is being sponsored by the Association of Women Students, and, according to notices issued by Dean Sarah Blanding, it is compulsory for all women students to attend unless they procure excuses from the office of the dean of women.

The subject for the lecture was selected by the A. W. S. Council at the request of many women students. The speaker will be introduced by Susan Anderson, council member.

Preceding the convocation address, mimeographed questionnaires will be distributed by A. W. S. members, filled out by girls attending the lecture, and collected at the end of the period. These questionnaires will list questions concerning campus problems, and will be distributed in an attempt to gain student opinion.

Following the convocation, the A. W. S. Council will entertain with a small tea at the Woman's building in honor of Doctor Pickett. They will be assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Eibel Tebus. Guests will include Mrs. Frank L. McVey, Dean Blanding, Mrs. P. K. Holmes, Mrs. Mary Lee Collins, Mrs. Washington, Miss Elizabeth Cowan, members of the Y. W. C. A. Junior round table, and members of the women's administrative council.

Susan Anderson and Eloise Pot-hast are in complete charge of arrangements for the convocation and reception.

Art Catalogue For Kentucky Planned

Women's Clubs In State Will Gather Information for Booklet

Data for a catalogue of art in Kentucky is being collected by the Kentucky federation of women's clubs in cooperation with the University, it was announced Sunday by Mrs. W. T. Lafferty, state chairman of the WFWC.

The need for such a catalogue is expressed by E. W. Rannels, head of the art department, who says that nothing constructive in art can be done without such a record.

Survey plans, designed by Professor Rannels, have been mailed to women's clubs throughout Kentucky to secure information concerning the history and description of each item of art, the artist responsible for it, and the present ownership.

All students attending College Nights may be admitted for the matinee price through the use of a coupon published each Friday in the Kernel.

EMILY SETTLE CORONATED AT MILITARY BALL

Hundreds of Dancers Watch Colorful Crowning and Presentation of Sponsors

22 MEN PLEDGED TO SCABARD AND BLADE

Anson Weeks and Orchestra Entertain for Annual Social Event

More than 1,000 persons from the University and the surrounding Blue Grass region witnessed the colorful event of the crowning of Miss Emily Settle, Frankfort, Kappa Kappa Gamma, as queen of the Military Ball, the presentation of the nine sponsors of the R. O. T. C. regiment, and the pledging of 22 military science students to Scabard and Blade, Saturday night, in Alumni gymnasium.

Ben Fowler, Lexington, captain of Company D, and president of Scabard and Blade, was in charge of the coronation exercises. Miss Settle's coronation took place on a throne that had a replica of Mt. Vernon, home of George Washington, as the background.

Miss Jeanne Pat Belt, Midway, and Miss Pat O'Rear, Frankfort, who were Miss Settle's attendants, were presented, and then followed the pledging to Scabard and Blade of the 22 military science students. The six company sponsors were then presented.

The militaristic atmosphere was accomplished with pieces of army equipment placed about the floor and spotlighted to cast their shadows on the walls.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Anson Weeks and his nationally known orchestra.

BAND DIRECTORS PLAN MAGAZINE

John Lewis, University Maestro, Named Associate Editor of "Southern Musician" At Meeting Here

Approximately 25 band directors attended the meeting of the Kentucky band directors association Sunday afternoon at the Art Center.

Plans were discussed for the publication of a new music magazine, "The Southern Musician." Lin Thayer, director of music at the Louisville Male High school, was named editor of the publication. John Lewis, director of the University band, was chosen as an associate editor. In the next issue of the magazine Mr. Lewis will review some current literature in the field of music.

Although the magazine will give band news of the entire South, it is especially designed to be of service to Kentucky band directors.

Changes suggested by the National music association for the rules of the annual state music contests were approved at the meeting.

Ruppmen Prove Superiority In South By Winning Over Vols, 39-25, In Fast Battle

Long Sought Student Union Construction Starts April 1

With the beginning yesterday of advertisement for bids on the Student Union building and the construction quite definitely scheduled to start about April 1, the University soon is to realize a need that germinated in the fall of 1932 and has been a goal of the students for the past five years.

The announcement has been received from the President's office that the bids on the building will be opened March 22, the construction started immediately after the bids have been accepted, and the building scheduled to be completed the latter part of October or the first of November.

The realization of the desire of the students has been established after many years of anticipation and struggle in the effort to attain the goal set in 1932. The movement for a building where students could gather for social events and recreation and where a center could be established for organizations and campus clubs was begun five years ago by members of Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary men's leadership fraternity. The cause was promulgated through the columns of The Kernel and received the full support and cooperation of President McVey. A campaign for funds sponsored by ODK brought encouraging results. Pledges made by various campus organizations, donations by faculty members and townspeople, dances, and tag sales gathered a fund of $30,000 on paper. The goal was still far off and students were beginning to despair. Then last spring the PWA loan was procured and a student union building was included in the construction program. The completed building will take approximately $230,000 of PWA funds. The actual student fund will amount to about $5,000 and will be used for furnishings for the building.

According to plans executed by Ernst V. Johnson, architectural engineer, the building will cost between 23 and 25 cents per cubic foot, as compared with 40 to 45 cents per cubic foot, the cost of other recently erected campus buildings.

The S. U. B. will be a three-story structure of modified classic design, and of brick, tile, and cut stone construction. It will be 142 feet wide and 158 feet long. Not only will it serve as a recreational center, but it will also bring about less congestion in other buildings on the campus. The third floor of McVey hall, where the Commons is now located, may be made into classrooms, the gym will no longer be needed for dances, and more office space will be available in the Administration building.

Large Audience Attends Musicales By Concert Band

Familiar Numbers Played By Group Under Direction Of John Lewis, Jr.

By DAVE SALYERS

Proving that during the few years of its existence it has become one of the best trained of University musical organizations, the University concert band, under the baton of John Lewis, Jr., presented the weekly vesper concert Sunday afternoon in Memorial hall.

The familiarity of the numbers as well as the finesse and apparent complete control of the players over their instruments made the entire program one of the best all-around affairs the writer has witnessed during the vesper series in several years. Notable, too, was the large crowd which was in attendance, evidencing the increasing interest of students in student programs.

Outstanding numbers played by the band were "Selection of Victor Herbert's Favorites," the march, "Little Colonel," by Robert Griffith, senior in music, and dedicated to director John Lewis, and the final "Introduction to Act III of 'Lohengrin'" by Wagner. Featured during the program was a cornet solo by Jack McCarthy, which demonstrated the finish that can be obtained with this instrument, and numbers by the University men's quartet, who turned in another good performance and showed their ability in novel selections. Mr. Lewis presented several Kentucky band directors during the program who conducted some of the numbers.

Dr. McVey Booked For Cincinnati Talk

Dr. Frank L. McVey will speak at a luncheon meeting April 10 during the district conference of the Association for Adult Education, which will be held April 9 and 10 at the Netherlands Plaza hotel in Cincinnati.

Dr. McVey will also take part in a round-table session during the conference, at which there will be representatives from Kentucky, Indiana, West Virginia, and Ohio.

A Mi-Careme party given by Circle Francais, French club of the University, and Circle Sans-Souci, French club of the University training school, will be held Thursday, March 4, at 7:30 o'clock, in the Woman's building. Mi-Careme parties are celebrated throughout France in the middle of the Lenten period at which time all fasting is terminated. Miss Velma Hardesty is in charge of the arrangements.

MIDWAY FAVORED IN TOURNAMENT

U-High Plays Versailles In Opening Game of 43rd District Meet, Thursday Night In Alumni Gym

With the University High Purples playing Versailles in the opening game and the top ranked Midway quintet taking on Picaadome immediately after, the annual 43rd district high school basketball tournament will get under way Thursday night in Alumni gym.

The first tilt will begin at 7 o'clock with the Midway-Picaadome scrap scheduled to start at 8.

University High and Versailles are the only two teams which did not draw byes. This game will probably be the best game of the opening night. Both teams consist of good ball players and it is a toss-up as to who will emerge the victor.

In the second game Picaadome is given little chance to win over the strong Midway Blue Jays. One of the teams favored to win their way into the state tourney and candidates to ultimately win the crown, the Blue Jays should have little trouble going to the finals of the district tourney if they are not bothered by sickness as they were last year.

Three games between Athens and Nicholasville, Henry Clay and Wilmore, and Bryan Station and the winner of the U. H.-Versailles game will be played on Friday night. The semi-finals will take place Saturday morning and that afternoon the winners will battle for the crown.

College students will be admitted for 25 cents upon presentation of their student books. Townspeople and those without their ticket books will be charged 50 cents.

Present State Of Fraternities Topic

The development of the social fraternity and its present status was the topic for a discussion between Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University, and approximately 100 representatives of the 17 social fraternities last night in McVey hall.

Labeling physical punishment and hazing as the fraternity "Fascist regime," he declared, "fraternity men should treat each other as gentlemen."

Doctor McVey told the representatives that financial delinquencies on the part of the houses "could not go on indefinitely," and that it would be an unwise move to restrict guest dance bids lists to fraternity men only.

Y.W. SOCIAL GROUP TO MEET

A study series of the biographies of famous women will begin at the weekly meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Social group at 3 p. m., Wednesday, March 3, in Boyd hall. Elizabeth Bengel will lead the discussion, which will be on Mary Todd Lincoln. She will be introduced by Ann Bishop, chairman of the group.

Big Blue Keeps In Van Entire Game But Is Hard Pressed In Final Minutes

CATS ADVANCE BY TOPPING L. S. U., TECH

Captain Donohue, Carlisle, Goforth Play Final Game For Kentucky

Knoxville, Tenn., March 1—Playing the coolest, smoothest and one of the cleanest games of this season, Kentucky's Wildcats outscored the Vols of Tennessee in the finals of the Southeastern tournament here tonight by taking a hard-fought 39 to 25 victory before a capacity audience of 4,500.

With Carlisle, Hodge, and Curtis sharing the high-scoring as well as the defensive honors, the Ruppmen outscored, outplayed, and outscored the Vols in a sizzling game of basketball.

With scoring infrequent, but carrying a great deal of weight, the Kentucky team held the lead from the opening tip to the final whistle. It was the first time in two years that the Vols were defeated on their home floor.

Before the game was ten seconds under way, Hagan sank one for the Wildcats. A fast few minutes of play followed with the Kentucky team in possession of the ball, when Walker sank another, making the score 4 to 0.

Tennessee Scores
During the fast play that followed, Donohue dropped a foul shot for the Ruppmen; before the Tennessee team scored a marker as Carlisle fouled Johnson of Tennessee who made the shot good. Westerkamp of the Vols dropped in another free throw before Hodge, fouled by Putnam sank a free one for the Wildcats.

With Kentucky playing a cool, smooth game, Carlisle chalked up a crisp for the Big Blue and Tennessee called for time out.

At this point Donohue tightened up and committed the first of the fouls which sent him out of the game three minutes before the end of the first half.

Cats Lead at Half, 19-12
Carlisle, Hodge, Hagan and Curtis sank double score markers before the end of the half. Putnam scored two doubles and Marshall one, making the score at the end of the half 19 to 12 in favor of Kentucky, members of both teams sinking free throws in the meantime.

Curtis opened the second half sinking a free throw. The Vols followed closely with a field goal. Curtis followed with another free one as did Marshall of Tennessee.

After Carlisle, Walker, and Curtis dropped in a goal apiece, keeping the Vols down, the scoring spree opened with both teams landing freely. Carlisle sank two more, and Goforth one while the Tennessee team was able to garner but eight points. As the game ended, and with it the college basketball career of Captain Donohue, Carlisle, and Goforth, the Cats were able to show their supremacy by rolling up the final score of 39 to 25.

The total points of each player follows:

Kentucky: Carlisle, 10; Hagan, 4; Walker, 7; Hodge, 5; Donohue, 2; Thompson, 0; Curtis, 7; Opper, 0; Goforth, 4; and Davis, 0.
Tennessee: Putnam, 4; Marshall, 15; Westerkamp, 1; Johnson, 2; Higdon, 2; Logan, 1; and Kriale, Hardeston, and Doherty all failed to score.

HERE SHALL THE KERNEL ALL STUDENT RIGHTS MAINTAIN

STUDENT UNION NOW A REALITY

Bids for a student union have been advertised, and we are happy to report that the final architectural plans for the building show, for the most part, that it is highly adaptable to student usage, at least for the time being.

According to the final draft, the structure will contain almost everything one would expect a union building to contain, except, possibly, a post office and a bookstore. These, however, will come later.

Although the sum allotted for the building of the union has been cut down to $230,000, the plans show that the structure has been planned with an eye to the future, while, at the same time, present needs are taken care of.

Those in charge of the project were far-seeing enough to realize that in time to come the building might prove to be inadequate, so they have planned it in such a manner that additions may be made either on the east side or the south side, or both.

The building itself will be done in the modern manner, speaking both architecturally and from the standpoint of operation and space factors. Air-conditioning and sound proofing are two examples of this fact.

When, about five years ago, the movement for a student union was initiated, those responsible hoped that its actuality would come about within a few years. It is now thought that the building will be put into use by February, 1938. Thus, in effect, the original backers of the student union will see their hope come true, although it has been given up many times during that interval of time.

Omicron Delta Kappa cannot be given too much credit in the affair. It has been the moving spirit which kept the dream alive. The Kernel, also, has been from the first, an ardent and active agency in the movement, both editorially and from a business angle. It pledged $20,000, a sizeable amount for a college newspaper, to the project if it would be given suitable quarters in the building. For many perfectly good reasons, The Kernel will not be housed in the union, but had the administration seen fit to give it those quarters, the pledge would have been kept.

It is a difficult task, when a vision becomes a reality, to review correctly the events which lead up to the attainment of that reality, and we do not feel that this is the place or the time to do so. It must be a source of pleasure and of great satisfaction, however, to those organizations and individuals who so stoutly fought the matter to completion.

The building when completed, no doubt, will seem far from perfect. Students, more than likely, will find it somewhat of a difficulty to attune themselves to it. We predict, though, that within a short time after its completion, all the more unsatisfactory features will be mitigated, and that the union will prove to be just what its sponsors desired it to be—a central and convenient gathering place for the entire student body, and a headquarters for a united student body.

A psychology professor at Oregon State has a new method of classifying students. He says that "A" students are usually meek and submissive and easily moulded to the professor's will. The "C" students are the independent type and are defiant at times, while those who average "B" are the happy medium and are the most successful.

CAMPUSOUNDS:

In the Ag building—"Maybe he knows how to handle livestock, but when it comes to wimmen he doesn't win any blue ribbons!"

At the show—"We can't leave now. The man next to me is asleep on my shoulder!"

In political science class—"What Spanish war?"

At the breakfast table—"Aw, stop staring at me. I know I look terrible, but I dreamed last night that I was out on a blind date—and it gave me insomnia!"

In the post office—"Why should we go to the Commons when we can sit here and ogle the coeds?"

At a freshman bull session—"Wimmen sure are funny. I can't figure them out, somehow, but wait until I'm a senior—I'll know everything there is to know about 'em!"

In journalism class—"Do you think we ought to wake the prof?"

DON'T LOOK NOW, BUT—you can't pull a sit-down strike here. This is the Women's Dorm!

I OFFER CAMPUSALUTES:

1. To the coed who doesn't discuss her love-life with the general public.
2. To the campustew who goes on the water-wagon, and doesn't fall off.
3. To the campustellite who maintains his sense of proportion and keeps his hat size down to normal.
4. To the campus clown who realizes that practical jokes, hell week, and bad puns are juvenile pains-in-the-neck, and stops indulging in them.
5. To the campusmoothe who can kiss and NOT tell.

UNIVERSITYTYPES:

The Campus Philosopher—He holds forth in bull sessions on any and all topics, whether he knows anything about them or not... His little woids of wisdom are indeed interesting, the first, second, third, and fourth times you're subjected to them, but after awhile they sort of pall... He gets such brilliant flashes as "Do you know, I think lots of students don't take advantage of their opportunities!" and then expects everybody to drop dead from wonder at such a deep thought... He prefaces his remarks with "It occurred to me..." and "When you really think about it, now..." etc., etc... His idea of a good conversationalist is a gal who says, "Really?" and "Goodness!"... and he'll probably grow up into a columnist, heaven help us readers!

Seemingly So...

By ODIS LEE HARRIS

Many proposals and solutions have been offered to the world from time to time regarding the problem of man and his very mischievous game of war. However, little or nothing is ever done about it. Thinking that a solution to such a terrible situation would be a great asset to posterity, your writer sets out to make such a contribution.

The remedy, uninfluenced by politics, race prejudice, or the stock market is hereby offered. It is simple, costs the taxpayer little, and should prove 100 per cent effective.

Promote all soldiers, would-be soldiers, congressmen, public officials, munition manufacturers, and the like to the rank of Full General. The result is obvious. Everyone is in a position to give orders and commands but not to obey them. And since there is no one to obey such orders when given there can be no army, for surely it would be a silly situation in which a Full General gave himself the command to wipe that smile off his face.

Having done this each Full General should be allotted to a hundred cooties, of the half-starved variety. Then give each Full General a loaf of bread, place him in a mud hole and make him exist there for a week. After the week has expired allow the Full General to crawl from his hole. Have medical attention given to the Full General because the odds are that he is not used to war as a reality, but as a game.

War is like a game of checkers with human beings as the men that cover the spots of the board. Full General Sourpuss of nation A allows Full General Sourpuss of nation B to slaughter men on spaces 19 and 21 in order that he (Sourpuss A) may slaughter men of Sourpuss B on squares 15, 31, and 44. If Full General Sourpuss A is luckier in his guesses than Full General Sourpuss B, nation A wins the war. Sourpuss A is loaded down with medals and Sourpuss B is in all probability shot because he guessed wrong.

The World War game of checkers cost the United States 50,500 men and a few billions of dollars. The United States entered into that checker game presumably for the purpose of making the world safe for democracy (?)

But such an excuse is like unto a big fat rat that has been dead too long. The only excuse for any war is "man's ingratitude to man." The only way in which to keep man from exercising this ingratitude on his fellow creature is to apply the remedy of this article, and make all men equal in rank.

For if it is left up to munition makers, congressmen, public officials, politicians, military officials, and the like to stand in half-frozen mud while crouched in a trench waiting for a signal of "over the top," you can be sure that there will be no more war.

APPARENTLY there is a contradiction to be found among the laws of nature, for it is an established law that a flash of lightning zig-zags its way because it follows the path of least resistance. Rivers flow to the sea over a tortuous bed cut into the land because it, too, follows that path of least resistance.

Now, I don't know off-hand if this fact has been set forth in a legal way as one of the fundamental laws of the universe, but it is a demonstrable fact.

It would seem that the same ruling would hold good concerning evolution of man—that the survival of the fittest hypothesis is a demonstration of that law, for the fittest it is easier to survive. Lightning in taking the easy way progresses. So do rivers. Yet in man this same easy path has led to the downfall of one civilization after another. And these same civilizations were built by men who did not take the easiest way out of each of the difficulties.

When learning was first revived in Europe after the long and dark ages a curious condition came about. The strong and healthy men were set to hard labor, trades, and the drudges, while the weaklings had no recourse but to use their wits to save their hides. These same "unfits" took to books and learning. Their wits were sharpened and it was the mind of the physically poor who contributed to art, literature, education, politics, science, and theology.

Proving an Axiom
That is not wholly true, but in proportion more of the weaker brothers were fitted to tend the soil and to fight. The unfits were as a group more timid, and they became diplomats or evolved into examples which proved "the pen is mightier than the sword."

It must be a fallacy—that a strong mind cannot live in a weak

The Vice Of the People

By GEORGE KERLER

Mr. Mars Goes to Town

I PRESUME the big news of the day concerns Saturday's rhythm drill. The alumni and alumnae were there in brigades, inasmuch the alumni and alumnae like to come "home" and regenerate their cyclonic campus careers. Such was the crowd the committee thought it advisable to the public's safety that an S. R. O. (Sitting Room Only) sign should be smeared against the front of the gym. At 10:45 this, we thought, was an excellent idea, for our broken floor dancing tricks were exhausted.

Some organization made money. It was indicative of what can be done here, provided a name band and publicity can harmonize.

Two things were outstanding. One was the distinctive smell out in front of the bandstand where all the jazzmaniacs strangle one another. Perspiration and powder smoke gave that area the reek of a cavalry stable. The other feature occurred when Ticky Scholtz strode onto the floor, accompanied not by an adoring dame, but by a great dane. They were both staggering it. The law stepped in, captured the couple, and ushered them off. Though we see nothing wrong with Ticky's friend, we made sure we tread not on its foot.

Kentucky women, khaki gallants, dancable music, balloons and Bacchanalia—who could ask for anything more.

From Waterbury, Conn., come characteristic remarks from Joe Quinn, obviously distressed by three losses the basketball team suffered not long ago. He thought it not grateful of the courtiers to drop three especially when Joe moved back into a Waterbury full of hecklers. I guess Joe feels cockier about things now. He zips greetings to all the athletes and to the boys in Journalismville.

Sag Kash, hidden in Norton, Virginia, writes up commenting on the Irvine phillipic, and griping about getting birth notices mixed up and missexed.

Ho-Hum

To Hilton Wallace: A girl from Danville has knocked on your door these last two Saturdays, each time finding no Wallace. She is keeping next Saturday open for you. Write her instructions... That was no blast furnace in the gym basement at the Ball, that was Bill Conley and Nancy Todd... If ever you thought the Delts peculiar, here's substantiation of your belief: They stood up the Tridells at open house Friday... I understand someone worked the influenza gas on Taber Brewer Saturday night... Cartoonist and SPE Walt Miley has hooked his black heart on Chio Nancy Harrison... Kodrinkle Kotcamp courts the Hoyle girls, Mary in the afternoon and Pauline at night. At least he keeps it in the family... says Betty Elliott of Rudy DeRoode.

body! It seems rare for a strong body to house a strong mind. More time spent in sport results in less time spent in thought. In 24 hours there is scarcely time to properly develop both.

One can think of countless hundreds of examples of cases wherein weaklings have proved themselves mental giants. I would like to mention a few from fact and fiction. Steinmetz, the Russian electrical wizard, was a genius in his field due mostly to circumstances which left him from birth a puny hunchback. Unlike his stronger neighbors in the rural town in which he was born he had to resort to wit to keep alive. He died only after contributing mightily to his field.

From Disability to Genius
Theodore Roosevelt was a weakling who strove to overcome his handicap and who succeeded in becoming robust and an ardent political leader.

More often than not, physical disability leads to genius and leadership. The child prodigy grows up to be a Jack Benny, or a person of much less talent, because violin was too easy. Being too easy there was nothing to surmount, and with nothing to surmount there is no incentive to drive.

Important nations are founded by hardy pioneers who battle elements and savages while building up towns and cities in which to live. It is the hardest way. Yet with the attainment of these secure homes come the gravest danger, the desire to travel along that highway of least resistance which results from a sense of security—man's chiefest enemy.

The path of least resistance leads to life of worthless existence!

U. S. Senator Reynolds

says: "Luckies are considerate of my throat"

"Two Southern traditions are oratory — and good tobacco. Lucky Strike shows me how to indulge in both. For this light smoke not only pleases my taste but leaves my throat in condition. Last fall in North Carolina—when I made over 100 speeches—I visited the Lucky Strike factory. I believe I discovered, in the Lucky Strike 'Toasting' process, the secret of what makes this cigarette so considerate of my throat. I have been more than ever an advocate of a light smoke since seeing the extra care and expense devoted to making Luckies easy on the throat."

Robt. R. Reynolds

HON. ROBT. R. REYNOLDS
U.S. SENATOR FROM NORTH CAROLINA

THE FINEST TOBACCOS—
"THE CREAM OF THE CROP"

In a recent independent survey, an overwhelming majority of lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc., who said they smoked cigarettes, expressed their personal preference for a light smoke.

Senator Reynolds' statement verifies the wisdom of this preference and so do leading artists of radio, stage, screen and opera, whose voices are their fortunes, and who choose Luckies, a light smoke. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on your throat.

WITH THE CLOSING of the Southeastern basketball tournament in Knoxville, the intense interest which is shown to this sport will now be turned to the high school hoopers. This week-end, several hundred Kentucky high school teams will swing into a competition which will not be terminated until a state champion is crowned in the UK gymnasium on the twentieth day of this month.

Sixty-four district tournaments in widely scattered spots all over the State will be conducted simultaneously and runners-up in these will then battle for the honor of coming to Lexington in the 16 regional tourneys.

Students in the University are already bragging on the prowess of their old alma mater and predicting on how far they will go in the competitions. There are nearly always students here from every school entered in the state tournament and the keen interest they show in basketball is easily understandable.

Always the most colorful event put on at Kentucky for high school competitions, this year's tourney promises to be the most exciting ever had.

Speaking of basketball, for the sixth consecutive year the long, lanky hilltoppers of Western Kentucky State Teachers College have sailed through to the K. I. A. C. crown. The mountaineers from Bowling Green seem to have that particular title well in hand. The Western team will be hosts to the S. I. A. A. tourney, on March 8, 9, and 10, the first time that this tournament has been held in the state of Kentucky since its organization in 1920. This is unusual because every prominent team in the state has been a member of this league at one time or another.

Incidentally, the first major tourney ever won by a Wildcat basketball team was the 1922 S. I. A. A. meet. At that time it contained all of the major teams in the South. The year after the 'Cats won the crown, the major universities broke away and formed the Southern Conference. Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia Tech, Mississippi, Mississippi State, Florida, Louisiana State, Auburn, Sewanee, Vanderbilt, Tulane, and Kentucky formed the Southeastern or Big Thirteen Conference.

With the possibility of having the best golf team ever to play at the University, athletic director Chet Wynne, has been busy for the past few weeks planning a suitable schedule for this season's crop of divot diggers. An excellent round of matches is in the offing, with tentative home and home games with the University of Tennessee, Dayton University, Eastern State Teachers College, and University of Cincinnati. Hope is also held for getting games with Western State, Butler, and Louisville.

In the past, little interest has been shown the Wildcat teams playing this old Scotch game. Most students who play a good game of golf have passed up the team so that they would be eligible to play in the intramural competitions for their fraternities. Since the introduction of golf as a physical education course, more students have shown interest in the game. Jack Mohnney, one of Kentucky's leading mashie welders, Bain Smith, a Stearns divot digger, and many other crack players have promised to come out for the team this year and competition promises to be much keener than it has been in the past.

The swimming team has been idle for the past week and their Coach and Captain, Sherman Hinklebein, is itching to get them back into competition so that his charges will not lose the feel of the water. Lacking a pool of their own, the mermen are having a hard time arranging to have all of their meets in their rival's own tanks. Several meets are in the offing with Eastern, Western, Vanderbilt, and others. They will enter all but the Vandy

INTRAMURAL

Four games are up for decision tonight in the Gym Annex as the Intramural basketball tournament goes into its third week of activity.

The following contests will be played: ATO vs KA, DX vs SAE, SX vs Tris, and PKA vs SPE. The ATO five downed SAE 14 to 13 in its last start, while KA showed strength in romping over AGR 30 to 12. DX will probably rank as favorite over SAE as it defeated the strong PDT quintet 28 to 21.

The undefeated Tris five should run its victory string to four games when it faces SX. Tris defeated SPE 25 to 13 while SX was falling before PKT 28 to 16. The PKA vs SPE encounter should be a toss-up as both fives will be out to achieve their first victory.

Entries for the ping-pong tournament are due by 6 p. m. Thursday, March 4. Teams are to consist of seven men in the singles and eight men in the doubles. The tourney is scheduled to begin Monday, March 8, with all games being played in the basement of the Men's gym.

There will be a general open house at the Woman's building from 4 to 6 p. m. Friday. A student orchestra will furnish music and refreshments will be served. All students are invited.

It is as favorites and they are given an even break with them. If all of these meets are booked, the swimmers should be in the pink of condition to defend their Kentucky State title which they won last season.

All over the country, you hear more people mention the refreshing mildness and the pleasing taste and aroma of Chesterfield cigarettes.

You hear somebody compliment Chesterfields at a party. Another time, the grocer tells you it's a darn good cigarette. Or you see a group of men on a street corner, most of 'em smoking Chesterfields.

Because they have what smokers like, Chesterfields are humming right along . . .
